Description (as recorded by DataCite)

machinemediation.org — the canonical home for Machine-Mediated Reception Studies (MMRS), a distributed journal for the study of how machine systems receive, transform, compress, attribute, misattribute, and redistribute cultural meaning. Live surfaces:

machinemediation.org — journal landing page machinemediation.org/captures/ — AI Overview Capture Registry (134 captures) machinemediation.org/terms/ — Archive Term Index (1,349 coined terms across 845 deposits) machinemediation.org/manifest.json — system manifest for machine and human continuity The manifest is the highest-leverage document in the infrastructure: any AI instance reads it as its first action and has the complete system map

— every site, every repo, every data file schema, every key DOI, every workflow — in under 2,000 tokens. Canonical data: machinemediation.org/data/registry.json (capture registry) and machinemediation.org/data/termindex.json (term index) are the single source of truth. All other surfaces read from this location. GitHub: leesharks000/machinemediation-org
